FOREWORD

THE Old Court House, Hampton Court, mainly built in 1706, is celebrated for the residence there of Sir Christopher Wren, who died in the Front Dining Room on Feb. 25th, 1723.

In this beautiful old house Mr. Norman Lamplugh has gathered together during a number of years collections of furniture, silver, needlework, paintings and curios which will be familiar to the many connoisseurs and other visitors who have had the privilege of visiting his house.

Among the paintings, special interest will be taken in the Portraits of Sir Christopher Wren and of the Stuart Kings. There is also a fine bronze bust of Charles I, probably by Hubert Le Sueur.

The needlework both English and Italian is noteworthy for its fine condition, and there is a representative collection of needlework, glass and sand pictures.

The English Furniture ranges from the Charles II to the Regency period and is mainly of convenient size; there are a few interesting examples of Italian, Spanish and Portuguese craftsmanship.

There are some rare examples of old English Silver, including what we believe to be the earliest known Bleeding Bowl, 1625, a Charles II Porringer, 1673, and an exceptionally fine Charles II Norwich Tankard of 1670.
